

Recognizing a growing demand in the wedding market for value for money weddings, without compromising on service or location, Tintswalo Atlantic launches their Winter Wedding experience, so brides can have it all.

There is nothing quite as beautiful or romantic as the grey steely waters of the Atlantic Ocean lapping the pebbled shoreline of a secluded beach. On one side of the landscape the Sentinel stands strong and tall, guarding its surrounds and on the other side, a spectacular backdrop of rocky outcrops, rugged cliffs, shrubs, lush bush, fynbos and wild flowers. There could be no better destination for a wedding.

Tintswalo Atlantic now offers a romantic Winter Wedding experience so you and your loved ones can experience the beauty of this location and the style and luxury it offers.

Whether it's a sit down dinner for 50, a cocktail party for 65, an intimate celebration of just 12 or even a vowel renewal, this Hout Bay wedding venue will fulfil every wish. The venue hire offer runs from April 1 to August 31 2014.

Tintswalo Atlantic sits on the shoreline of the majestic Atlantic Ocean nestled in the heart of the wondrous Table Mountain National Park, a South African heritage site. Completely hidden from view and draped by nature, the hotel sits low and right on the coastline. Tintswalo is Shangaan for an intangible feeling of love, peace and gratitude bestowed upon someone offering you a meaningful and worthy gift and Tintswalo Atlantic certainly lives up to its name. Built by the Corbett family, this eco friendly and sustainable hotel is a harmonious marriage between nature and luxury, sophistication and world-class style, and prides itself on impeccable service, friendly accommodating staff and wonderful amenities.

The rooms hug the coastline and the ever-changing waters of the Atlantic Ocean lap the pebbled beach just mere metres below. There are only 10 island suites and a two-bedroom presidential suite. Each looks out onto sea, mountain and the bay where yachts and tugboats bob side by side sharing the waters with the occasional whale. The rooms are unique and individually designed after their namesakes, famous international islands.

The main areas of the Tintswalo Atlantic comprise of an open plan kitchen, dining area, large deck with a heated Jacuzzi and lounge and bar. Great service and fine dining is par for the course thanks to its 5-star restaurant, with the chefs on hand to cater to your every whim, while the high tea is fast carving itself a foodie reputation.

From the beautifully appointed ocean-facing rooms to the spacious en-suite bathrooms and patios that offer romantic night skies and twinkling views over Hout Bay, Tintswalo Atlantic is the perfect destination for a romantic occasion, especially a Cape Town wedding.

Look out for more Tintswalo Atlantic experiences coming soon, including a Winter Warmer experience and a unique Dinner Club invitation...

Tintswalo Atlantic boasts an exclusive and unique shoreline location within the protected Table Mountain National Park, situated just outside of Hout Bay off Chapman's Peak drive. The boutique hotel boasts 10 Island Suites as well as the Presidential Suite, which all face the ocean with breath taking views of the Sentinel. The pebbled beach directly in front of the lodge is secluded and sheltered by winds and is one of the boundaries of the Table Mountain National Park, globally known for its extraordinarily rich, diverse and unique fauna, flora and fynbos. Overlooking the beach and steely waters, a heated pool allows for daily dips all year round.
