

Answering a need for value for money getaways this winter, Tintswalo Atlantic launches new winter warmer experience

As the colder months subtly creep in, we suggest booking a mini winter warmer break to heat things up. Treat your loved ones to a special visit at the spectacular Tintswalo Atlantic Hotel. Built by the Corbett family, this eco-friendly and sustainable hotel is a harmonious marriage of nature with luxury, situated in the Table Mountain National Park and Heritage site.

Priding itself on impeccable service, sophistication and world-class style, friendly and caring staff and wonderful amenities, this luxury accommodation in Hout Bay now offers a well-deserved winter warmer retreat from March until August 31, 2014. Included in this experience is accommodation, dinner and breakfast, complimentary bubbly on arrival, all tea, coffee and juices, a 30-minute spa treatment, transfers to and from the hotel, as well as walks around the Table Mountain Reserve.

Tintswalo Atlantic sits on the shoreline of the majestic Atlantic Ocean, nestled in the heart of the wondrous Table Mountain National Park, a South African heritage site. Completely hidden from view, and draped by nature, the hotel sits low, right on the coastline, against a backdrop of rocky outcrops, rugged cliffs, shrubs, lush bush, fynbos and wild flowers. Tintswalo is Shangaan for an intangible feeling of love, peace and gratitude bestowed upon someone offering you a meaningful and worthy gift, and Tintswalo Atlantic certainly lives up to its name.

The rooms hug the coastline and the ever-changing waters of the Atlantic Ocean lap the pebbled beach just mere metres below. There are only 10 island suites and a two-bedroom presidential suite and each looks out onto water, mountain and the bay where yachts and tugboats bob side by side sharing the waters with the occasional whale. The rooms are unique and individually designed after their namesakes, famous international islands.

The main areas of the Tintswalo Atlantic comprise an open plan kitchen, dining area, large deck overlooking the rocks, a heated swimming pool, Jacuzzi and lounge and bar. Great service and fine dining is par for the course, thanks to its 5-star restaurant, chefs are on hand to cater to your every whim while the high tea is fast carving itself a foodie reputation.

From the beautifully appointed ocean-facing rooms to the spacious en-suite bathrooms and patios that offer romantic night skies and twinkling views over Hout Bay, Tintswalo Atlantic is the perfect destination for a romantic break. Book now and experience luxury and fine living with this unique seasonal special created specially for the local market.

Look out for more Tintswalo Atlantic specials coming soon; including a wonderfully romantic Winter Wedding special and a unique Dinner Club invitation...

For reservations and enquiries please contact Dumi by email on res3@tintswalo.com or by telephone on 011 3008700

For all media enquiries please contact Robyn Leigh Elford by email on Robyn@nickyarthurpr.com or by telephone on 021 424 0384

Nicky Arthur PR
WE'LL TELL YOUR STORY.

Ends

NOTE TO EDITORS

Tintswalo Atlantic boasts an exclusive and unique shoreline location within the protected Table Mountain National Park, situated just outside of Hout Bay off Chapman's Peak drive. The boutique hotel boasts 10 Island Suites as well as the Presidential Suite, which all face the ocean with breathtaking views of the Sentinel. The pebbled beach directly in front of the lodge is secluded and sheltered by winds and is one of the boundaries of the Table Mountain National Park, globally known for its extraordinarily rich, diverse and unique fauna, flora and fynbos. Overlooking the beach and steely waters, a heated pool allows for daily dips all year round.

